

Creator God, I Look to You Alone

Trinity Hymnal (Red) #168

Psalter Hymnal (1987) #521

Creator God, I look to you alone
For every blessing of my humble life.
Graciously now provide my every need,
Through toil, and hardship and my bitter strife.

My very life was given unto me,
My every breath, my every beat of heart.
Through rain and sunshine sent upon the earth,
My life from me does not so soon depart.

Nothing I have come not first from your hand.
No good I do is merit of my own.
But you provide my every need to stand,
And all my strength is found in grace alone.

Out from the ground comes bread for me to eat.
Out from the earth refreshing waters flow,
To nourish life first given unto me,
When did the Spirit into Adam blow.

Thus in your gracious vast creation 'round,
The preservation of my life is giv'n.
And as your blessings even more abound,
I wait in joy and eagerness for heav'n.

Where by redemption born in Jesus Christ,
A new creation full will spring to life.
These present suff'rings cannot close compare,
With His great glory that I then will wear.
